

Imperial residents were greeted with a ground full of snow Sunday after four inches fell starting Saturday night. It was the first snow in Imperial since late October and came just in time for Christmas, with more predicted on Wednesday this week. Above, Eddie Sis was one of the ones out Sunday afternoon clearing the walks by his home on West 12th St. Meanwhile, Santa and his dog in this display at the Rich and Lynn Meyer home on Broadway seemed to welcome the long overdue snowfall. (Republican photos)

