

Snow cancelled out the March 23 Easter Egg Hunt in Imperial, but the rescheduled event last Saturday afternoon in Campbell Park couldn't have had better weather. Two-year-old Forest Greene, above, was very successful in his hunt with a basketful of eggs, as Kacen Wenzlick, also two, at right, is just getting started. As the hunt was about to begin, Jennifer Stafford and two-year-old daughter, Jordyn, below, check out the lay of the land. Chantal Vlasin was trying her egg collection bucket on for size with dad, Jeremy, as they waited for the "Go." Eggs were hidden in four different areas of the park for various age groups. (Republican photos)

