The Imperial Republican

The public is urged to attend Imperial Infinity Oct. 17 at The Imperial Theatre. Not only will this be a time for people to share their experiences and hobbies with others in the community, but awards will be presented for the YouTube Video contest.

Originally, persons were asked to give speeches, sing, recite poetry and more during the evening.

However, Community Development Director Jason Tuller said no entries were received, so he'll try that again next year.

Instead, a video demonstrating the idea will be shown, followed by presentation of first, second and third places for the Imperial YouTube Video contest. The videos will also be shown on the theater screen.

There were four entries for the contest, which was designed to showcase Imperial from different points of view. The videos were shown on YouTube and voted upon.

The show will begin at 7 p.m.
