

Mercy Meals in Wauneta was bustling with activity last Saturday when 50-60 people worked three shifts at the organization in memory of Amanda Johnson. During the three shifts they packed a total of 32,400 meals for hungry people around the world. Here, clockwise from front left, Curtis Johnson, Marc Woods, Seven Dinnel, Marci Kelley and Ronee Kruger measure out meal components at one of the stations Saturday. The next regular packings at Mercy Meals are scheduled for Monday, Nov. 11, from 6-8 p.m. MT and Saturday, Nov. 16, from 9-11 a.m. MT. Those interested in volunteering at upcoming packings can do so at mercymealsofsouthwestnebraska.org or by calling any Mercy Meals board member. (Wauneta Breeze photo)
