

It proved to be a night of basketball and fun last Thursday as the Harlem Ambassadors went up against a team of local players. Though the Ambassadors took a 73-24 win, no one came out losers in the entertaining night. Above, Lucy Spady, who was the winner in one of the fun kids' contests, tries out some dance moves with two of the players. At right, Josh Keating drives the ball against a strong Ambassadors defender. A lot of crowd interaction is part of the Ambassadors' program. (Republican photos)
