

Although there were less runners in the annual Pumpkin Run in and around Champion last Saturday, the number of children running was impressive.

There were 26 youth in the kids' run, 14 runners in the three mile race, and four in the 10 mile race.

Towns represented included Wray, Colo., and Newman Grove, Grant, Albion, Rising City, Benkelman, Imperial and Parks, Neb.

Chairman Jill Moline said winners wouldn't be listed, as several runners either ran under different names or preferred not to have their names published.

However, winners of the three-mile race were Jordan Jablonski and Garret Thompson.

Running Times magazine and Imperial Super Foods sponsored the race, which started and ended at Cox's Ponds.
