

Youngsters, and some older kids, were lined up to try their best at a three-point shot at halftime of Friday's home basketball games. The event was sponsored by the school's FBLA chapter, and successful shooters went home with a liter of pop. At left, Logan Jussel put down a 10-spot for 10 tries at the hoop and was successful in at least one of them. Britt Gockley, who won the elementary "nerd" dress-up night at the game, waits for his turn. At right, young Braxton Maris takes his time before his shot. Youngsters his age could step up a little closer to the basket. FBLA Sponsor Sandy O'Neil said funds raised in the project help pay for expenses of going to the state FBLA convention. Another Three-Point Shoot will be held at the home games Feb. 8. (Republican photos)
