The Imperial Chamber of Commerce will hold its second annual Ag Technology Fair in Imperial Thursday, Jan. 14.

The expo will be held at the St. Patrick's fellowship hall from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and will include a meal.

Clint Johnson, chair of the Chamber's ag committee and outgoing Chamber president, said there was great response from last year's fair and he looks for a similar response this year.

The fair allows farmers and ranchers to become informed on cutting-edge technology available for their operations.

The fair also provides businesses with the venue to share technologies that will benefit the producer.

A list of exhibitors will appear next week.
