

Members of the Chase County Schools junior class are wanting steak instead of chicken at next year's Prom, so they have been busy organizing halftime shooting contests at home high school basketball games. It was no different Saturday night, when the youngsters lined up for a chance to win a liter of pop if they made their shot. Above, Nolan Spady takes his chances at the basket, while Kadya Milner, at left, takes a very good look before she shoots. The youths were lined up for the event until teams came back out for the second half. (Republican photos)
